

Forecast Is 14.7 Million Bales Cotton

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department today estimated the year's cotton crop at 14,700,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight.

This figure is 12,000 bales less than last month's forecast of 14,820,000 bales. It compares with 14,318,000 produced last year and 13,979,000 for the ten-year (1951-60) average.

Arkansas' yield was set at 524 pounds per acre and 1,475,000 bales.

This year's crop, like all those of recent years, is being grown under a federal acreage allotment and marketing quota program designed to prevent overproduction.

This crop will be supplemented by a reserve and surplus of about 7,700,000 bales accumulated from past crops.

The yield of cotton per acre for harvest was forecast at 448 pounds compared with 449 pounds indicated last month, 438 last year and 289 for the ten-year average.

The indicated yield per acre and production, respectively, of cotton by other major-producing states included:

North Carolina 329 pounds per acre and production 280,000 bales; South Carolina 368 and 445,000; Georgia 357 and 530,000; Tennessee 484 and 540,000; Alabama 383 and 725,000; Mississippi 507 and 1,675,000; Missouri 557 and 450,000; Louisiana 472 and 560,000; Oklahoma 247 and 335,000; Texas 346 and 4,775,000; New Mexico 703 and 290,000; Arizona 973 and 815,000; California 1,038 and 1,740,000.

In an accompanying report, the Census Bureau said 4,680,894 running bales of 1962 crop cotton had

Money Bill Is Key to Adjournment

WASHINGTON (AP) — A supplemental money measure appeared to be the key to adjournment as Congress today headed into what may be the final week of its long, continuous session since 1951.

With many members of both houses already home campaigning for the Nov. 6 elections, there were some of the tasks facing those who remained in Washington.

Senate action on the foreign aid appropriation.

Half a dozen appropriations measures, including a $500-million supplemental bill on which adjournment may hinge.

A public works authorization bill.

The Senate is expected to act today on the compromise foreign aid appropriation which the House passed Saturday 171-108.

The measure now calls for $3,928,900,000 in foreign aid spending, $1,032,400,000 less than President Kennedy originally asked.

Much attention was focused on the $500-million supplemental appropriation which two Senate Democrats—Richard B. Russell of Georgia and George A. Sathers of Florida—were trying to delay for different reasons.

Russell was trying to bring pressure on the House while Sathers eyed the money measure as possible leverage while he jockeyed with the President over a pension bill.

Russell blocked attempts to hustle the measure onto the Senate floor last week and threatened to insist on compliance with a rule requiring three days to elapse before the Senate can act on such a bill.

He hopes to force the House to reverse its decision on a $5-billion appropriation for the Department of Agriculture. The House last week refused to accept about $25 million worth of research projects tacked onto the bill by the Senate, including a $16-million peanut marketing research station in Russell's home state—Georgia.

A bill permitting self-employed persons to set up tax exempt pensions within limits is now before Kennedy. There has been speculation he might veto it. It would become law at midnight Wednesday if he does not act on it before then and both houses are still in session.

A public works authorization measure was ready for passage by both houses this week. The future of a similar bill authorizing work on rivers, harbors and flood control was hazy.

Municipal Group to Back No. 50

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Proposed Constitutional Amendment 50 probably will be the chief topic of discussion at the 28th annual convention of the Arkansas Municipal League at Hotel Marion today and Tuesday.

The Amendment, if adopted in the Nov. 6 election would liberalize taxing powers of cities. The league is a principal backer of the proposal.

Fred Pickens of Newport, chairman of a Citizens Committee for Amendment 50, will address the convention Tuesday.

Other speakers will include Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., and Mayor Roy Row of Batesville, league president.

Howard Co. Vote

NASHVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Howard County residents will vote on a proposed one-mill library tax in the Nov. 6 election. The tax would provide about $7,000 annually for maintenance of a library.

NEW YORK (AP) — The San Francisco Giants defeated the New York Yankees 7-3 in the fourth game of the World Series Monday on Chuck Hiller's grand slam homer in the seventh. This evened the series at two games each.

Hiller's blast, the eighth in series annals but the first ever made by a National League player, was made off Marshall Bridges, the third Yankee pitcher.

The fifth game of the series will be played here in New York Tuesday. Wednesday will be an open date with the sixth game set for Thursday in San Francisco.

Jack Sanford will pitch for the Giants and Ralph Terry for the Yankees Tuesday. Both are right-handed.

Red Cross Is an Old Organization

The Red Cross was organized in 1881 under a Congressional charter to provide certain services to the American people.

These services included Home Service (service to servicemen and veterans and disaster services).

When a disaster strikes a community, the first agency that is considered to take care of personal needs is the American Red Cross. The chapter in Hempstead County was organized by a local group during the First World War.

The chapter, like all Red Cross chapters, is supported solely through the contributions given by the people of Hempstead County.

The Executive Secretary of the chapter is Mrs. W. C. Gentry. She has served in this capacity for a number of years. The local Red Cross Chapter is a participant of the Hempstead County United Fund. The local Chapter Chairman is Dr. Lloyd Guerin.

In order that the people of Hempstead County may know what the Red Cross is doing in the county, the following projects that were carried out during 1962.

Sixty-two certificates were awarded in water safety program taught locally under the Red Cross supervision.

Fifty certificates were issued in the First Aid course taught by local firemen and other first aid teachers. The Red Cross is considered an important part of the community. The military services in particular rely on the Red Cross for doctor reports on emergency leaves and in particular all cases of emergency leaves the Red Cross makes, either a loan or a grant to the serviceman that will enable him to come home.

More than 200 such cases have been handled this year. The total amount of money spent on various services in the Hope area so far this year is approximately $1,000.00. The people are the Red Cross; and Red Cross was organized to serve people.

1,113 Cuban Prisoners May Be Released

By GEORGE ARFELD

HAVANA (AP) — Release of 1,113 Cuban prisoners captured in the April 1961 invasion appeared imminent today. A negotiator for the families of the captives said it seemed that "all went well, thank God."

Apparently only a few formalities, such as the wording of the communique, remained to be settled before the men are set free and flown to the United States.

The optimistic impression came from Mrs. Berta Barreto de los Heros, Havana representative of the Cuban Families Committee. She refused to elaborate on her comment that all seemed well.

She said she was pledged to silence during the final stage of the talks.

The likelihood of an impending break was strengthened by a quick trip from Havana to Miami by New York attorney James B. Donovan, negotiator for the families' committee. Speculation arose that Donovan, who flew back to Havana Sunday night, had arranged special transportation to Florida for the prisoners.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government asked $62 million for all prisoners taken in the Bay of Pigs invasion. About 60 have been freed. Donovan said when he left for Havana last month that he would offer Castro medicine and food in lieu of a cash ransom.

Mrs. Barreto said that Donovan was to meet Castro again, possibly today.

In a speech opening the Latin American University Games Sunday night, Deputy Prime Minister Raul Castro assailed U.S. policies and declared any invasion force would face annihilation if it set foot on Cuban soil.

Castro, who is Fidel's brother and also armed forces minister, called the Bay of Pigs prisoners a "herd of traitors" and added, "If their masters want to rescue them, let them pay the price that has been fixed."

Donovan, who negotiated the swap of U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers for Soviet spy Rudolf Abel last year, made his quick trip to Miami on an unscheduled Pan American World Airlines plane.

Mississippi's Appeal Meets Rejection

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court rejected today an appeal by the state of Mississippi contesting orders that resulted in enrollment of James Howard Meredith, a Negro, at the University of Mississippi.

Meredith, 29, enrolled Oct. 1 under military protection ordered by President Kennedy to end two days of rioting in the university area.

Meredith's admission to the previously all-white university came after Justice Hugo Black on Sept. 10 enjoined university officials from taking any step to block the Negro's enrollment.

Before Black acted, Atty. Gen. Joe T. Patterson of Mississippi had filed an appeal with the high tribunal. It asked review and reversal of a decision by the U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans that Meredith had improperly been denied admission in May 1961, solely because of his race.

While the Circuit Court called for Meredith's admission, one of its members, Judge Ben F. Cameron of Meridian, Miss., issued a stay order to bar his enrollment.

Counsel for Meredith asked Black to vacate Cameron's order and this request was granted by the Supreme Court Justice in his Sept. 10 ruling.

Black then said delay in admission of Meredith could only work "further injury" to him while immediate enforcement of court orders for his enrollment "can do no appreciable harm to the university or other respondents" (state officials).

Black made the prediction that "there is very little likelihood" that the Supreme Court would act on Atty. Gen. Patterson's appeal.

This prediction came true today when the high tribunal in a brief order announced rejection of the Mississippi appeal.

The court's order made no comment.

9 Violent Deaths in Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Shootings and traffic fatalities took the lives of nine persons in Arkansas over the weekend, boosting the state's total of violent deaths for the week ended midnight Sunday to 17.

At Crossland Sunday a 25-year-old man shot and killed his wife and later killed himself. Ashley County coroner William Jones ruled it murder and suicide.

Police said Marlin Hollis had an argument with his estranged wife and shot her five times with a .22 caliber rifle. Then he took his 2-year-old daughter to his parents' house. The daughter ran up to her grandfather while her father shot himself in the head with a 16 gauge shotgun in front of the home.

Hollis apparently had planned to murder his wife, Norman Wesson Hollis, police said.

A head-on collision on state Highway 183 took the life of Bobby Joe Smith, 19, of near Benton Saturday. Three occupants of the other car—Oliver D. Lewis, Shirley Bradshaw and Billy Lewis, all of Bauxite—were seriously injured. The accident occurred one mile west of Bryant.

The bodies of a Negro man and woman, fatally shot, were found Saturday night in a home at Fellsenthal. Union County Deputy Coroner Ferrell Gresham ruled it double homicide in the deaths of Vernon Grissom, 40, and Georgia Mae Moses, 33, both of Huttig.

Officers arrested R. J. Moses, 40, of Huttig and held him on an open charge. The dead woman was his wife.

Another teen-ager, Willard Freeman, 19, of near Morrilton, was killed instantly and five other youngsters were injured when a car driven by Freeman struck an embankment in west Little Rock Saturday.

The injured included Eddie Bingham, 15, of near Perry; Lawson Jones, 15, and Melva Jean Jones, 17, of Opella; Barbara Hallett, 16, and Karen Sue Hallett, 12, of near Morrilton.

A North Little Rock Negro, Theodore Roosevelt Bright, 41, was fatally shot in North Little Rock Saturday.

Unclaimed Body to Be Buried

MARIANNA, Ark. (AP) — George Clark Berry will be buried Oct. 14 in the Vandale Cemetery, 53 years after he died.

Berry's body lay unclaimed and unidentified in a Marianna mortuary from 1909 until last month when it was donated to the University of Arkansas Medical Center for research.

But news stories about the body attracted the attention of Mrs. Tommy Peck of Cherry Valley, who identified it as that of her father.

Mrs. Peck said Berry was ill when he left home in 1909.

Reports on how the body came to be in the mortuary conflict. One says the man was a railroad worker who died of malaria. Another has him as an unidentified hobo who died beside a railroad track.

Mortuary employees called the body "Tommy Moon" for years from a story that it was found by a man named Tommy on a moonlit night.

Vandale is 45 miles north of Marianna.

Kennedy Will Keep Up His Political Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy kept his political briefcase handy today after a whirlwind tour through four Midwestern states appealing to voters to send more Democrats to Congress.

Wednesday night he will be off again, to Baltimore for a political rally.

Friday and Saturday he swings through New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Kentucky. More schedules are being lined up. His politicking will keep him on the road every weekend until the Nov. 6 election.

Throughout his campaigning during the weekend in Kentucky, Ohio, Michigan and Minnesota, Kennedy's theme was the same: He wants to get the country moving again, but Republicans block him on some of his major efforts.

In St. Paul Saturday night the President put it this way: "This country has many pieces of unfinished business. Many of the things that we hoped to do are still not done, but we are trying to do them."

"And we need members of the House and Senate who are committed, not merely to voting 'aye' and 'nay,' but participating in the legislative process, which makes it possible for this country to go ahead."

Then he winds up, as he did Saturday night, with a pitch like this:

"That is why I come here tonight, although I am not a candidate for office, asking your help on issue after issue, which will make it possible to educate your children, to find jobs for our citizens, to provide security for our older people, and to make this country the greatest country in the world, which it is, and which it must be if this world and the country are going to remain free."

This argument presents some difficulties:

1. Kennedy rarely mentions that he already has a pretty good majority of Democrats in the House and Senate. The House margin is 262 to 174, the Senate 64 to 36. He gets around this by ignoring defections and saying too many issues are settled, one way or another, by a couple of votes.

2. He passes over the fact that some Republicans support him on some issues more consistently than some Democrats.

3. Most important, though, is this: a president, no matter how great his prestige, has always had trouble transferring it to Congressmen.

Kennedy is acutely aware of this. During the weekend he repeatedly pointed out that only once, during the heyday of the New Deal, in 1934, has the party in power gained seats in the off years when there is no presidential contest.

Kennedy's weekend went well until rain Sunday brought a halt to plans for a stop in St. Cloud, Minn. He addressed the rally by phone before flying back to Washington. He talked mostly about his administration's agriculture policies.

Throughout the trip crowds were good, though not always spectacular.

In the Midwest weekend campaigning has its hazards at this time of year—it's hard to huck Big Ten football.

Court Plans to Review School Bible Readings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed today to take a further look at the whole question of prayers and Bible reading in public schools.

It announced it will review: —A decision by a three-judge federal court in Philadelphia that a Pennsylvania law requiring Bible reading in public schools violates the federal Constitution.

—A decision by the Maryland Court of Appeals, upholding a Baltimore school board regulation calling for a daily opening exercise of Bible reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer.

In its last term, the high court ruled unconstitutional a prayer which New York State authorities had directed be used in public schools.

The court held that this official prayer breached the Constitution's provision for separation of state and religion.

In the Pennsylvania case to be reviewed in this term, the special three-judge Philadelphia federal court declared that Pennsylvania "has seen fit to breach the wall between church and state" by its Bible-reading statute.

The state's attorney general, the Pennsylvania superintendent of public instruction, and the Abington Township School Board in suburban Philadelphia, appealed to the high tribunal to reverse the decision. The appeal said that to ban Bible reading in morning opening exercises in schools would be to ignore the traditions of this nation.

Edward L. Schompp, member of a Unitarian church in the Germantown section of Philadelphia, began the litigation. His children attended Abington Township schools. He contended the state law was unconstitutional even though the Legislature in 1959 provided pupils should be excused from the Bible-reading period on written request from their parents.

Upholding this contention, the special court said bible-reading constituted an obligatory religious observance barred by the U. S. Constitution.

Louisiana Statute Is Struck Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court affirmed today a decision striking down Louisiana's transportation segregation statutes as unconstitutional.

At the same time, the high tribunal affirmed another decision that upheld an Interstate Commerce Commission order banning interstate bus operators from using bus terminals where racial discrimination is practiced.

The second order threw out an appeal by Georgia attacking the ICC order.

Georgia's appeal was from a decision by a special three-judge U.S. District Court in Atlanta. The special court held the ICC order valid.

In the Louisiana case, a special U.S. District Court in that state not only struck down Louisiana's transportation segregation laws, but also barred state officials from requiring the posting of signs in bus and railroad terminals indicating any facilities were for use of persons of any particular race or color.

Atty. Gen. Jack P. F. Gremillion and other Louisiana officials in appealing to the Supreme Court questioned that the state's transportation segregation statutes imposed an undue burden on interstate commerce. The appeal also questioned that the special court was correct in holding that the U.S. Attorney General had standing to file suits against Louisiana in the name of the United States.

In the Georgia case, the state said the ICC order had the illegal effect of regulating interstate commerce. The state contended this resulted from the fact that economic necessity requires that the same buses and terminals be used in both interstate and intrastate transportation.

Mute Raptly Watches a Square Dance

By TONY ESCODA

SUNGEI BULOI, Malaya (AP)—A 12-year-old Malayan girl, who cannot hear or talk, raptly watches an American square dance.

A boy with warped hands gleefully makes a catch in a game of softball.

Both are lepers, among 2,500 patients being helped by two Peace Corps volunteers at a Malayan government sanitarium.

Nurses Sadie Slaut and Mary Janzili says it didn't take them long to make up their minds to accept a chance to work at this leprosarium, although neither had worked before with the disease feared since biblical times.

Leprosy, which attacks nerves, kills tissue and leaves many of its victims deformed, has largely disappeared from the United States but still flourishes in tropical countries. Its cause is still a mystery.

Miss Janzili, 39, who comes from Napa, Calif., says, "They left the decision up to us, and we're glad we are here."

Miss Slaut, 35, from Arkansas City, Kan., adds, "I always wanted to work in a leprosarium, but I don't know why."

They arrived last January at Sungei Buloh, a neat cluster of pastel-shaded buildings and cottages set amid the palm-rich Malayan countryside, 15 miles south of Kuala Lumpur, the capital.

Their daily routine—which they share with a Malayan staff including only four other nurses—takes them along miles of hospital corridors and narrow asphalt roads. They check wards and visit the sprawling colony's clinics where hundreds come daily for fresh dressings.

They also work in surgery, assisting at operations sometimes necessary to save a patient in the advanced stages of leprosy.

A third Peace Corps volunteer, Natalia Smille, a 65-year-old widow from Washington, D.C., joined the two in June as a researcher at Sungei Buloh's laboratory.

A cheery "hello" to all patients is standard from "Missy Sadie" and "Missy Mary" as they make their rounds in crisp white uniforms.

Their favorites are the 250 youngsters, who may spend several years away from home to protect their families. The disease can be transmitted through long personal contact.

The American nurses spend much of their spare time with the children, as Girl Guide (Scout) leaders, folk dance teachers and—in the case of baseball fan Janzili—softball coach.

The two Americans have high praise for their patients and the way they bear up under handicaps.

"They are real people," says Miss Slaut. "You don't know how much until you work with them."

The feeling, apparently is mutual. Sungei Buloh's superintendent, Dr. M. K. Bhowani, says of his Peace Corps workers: "We don't know what we'll do when they go."

Harvests moved forward rapidly early this month in Louisiana under generally favorable weather conditions. Rains caused some delay in harvesting in Mississippi and Arkansas, but prospects in these states remained about the same as indicated a month ago.

The report said considerable cotton was open in Missouri and Tennessee for August drought matured the crop rapidly, but excessive September rain reduced quality and prospective acre yields.

In Alabama and other southeastern states good progress has been made in harvesting the crop but yields are turning out slightly less than indicated a month ago.

Negro in 2nd Week at Ole Miss U.

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—An answer to a big federal government question could come today when James H. Meredith goes back to class at the University of Mississippi.

This will start the second week in the classroom for the 29-year-old Negro whose entry into the 114-year-old university touched off riots that left two men dead and 200 injured.

Only one Justice Department officer accompanied Meredith Sunday when the bulk of the student body returned from the weekend break. But there were also two federal marshals and an Army jeep with four soldiers following.

The reception he receives could indicate the temper on the campus and this is the problem confronting the federal government.

Justice Department officials plan to talk to student leaders to enlist their help for student acceptance of Meredith. The federal men contend they are "not asking them to like it, but we're hoping there will be some respected students" who can silence the catcalls and jeering.

A scattering of boos greeted Meredith when he came out of the university cafeteria Sunday night. About 120 persons waited outside for him to leave.

Two unidentified white students shook hands with Meredith as he walked toward his apartment in Baxter Hall, a few strides from the cafeteria.

Federal military forces remained in Oxford, snuggled in the north part of the state about 170 miles from Jackson. The weekend was quiet, what with the homecoming football game between Ole Miss and the University of Houston transferred to Jackson by orders of the Defense Department.

Ole Miss, ranked seventh nationally in last week's Associated Press poll, won its third straight game by routing the Texans 40-7.

Meredith's personal bodyguard of about 20 U.S. marshals reportedly is seeking permanent quarters. However, one Justice Department spokesman said responsibility for Meredith's safety eventually might shift to Mississippi authorities.

In other developments over the weekend:

A frantic burst of applause greeted Gov. Ross Barnett when he appeared at Jackson's Memorial Stadium for the football game.

The governor, who still has a federal contempt citation facing him, led the battle against Meredith's enrollment.

Episcopal Bishop John Maury delivered the invocation at the game and asked for the state's deliverance from "violence, discord and confusion."

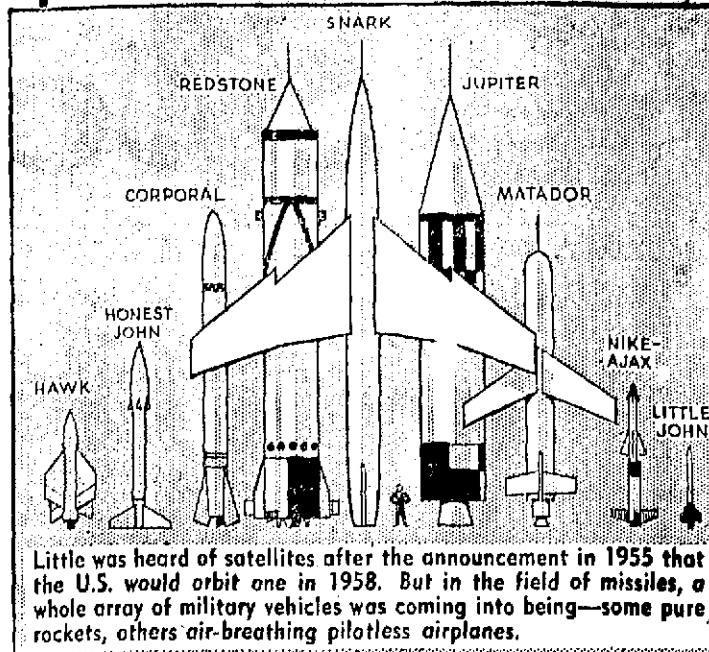

Another Episcopal clergyman, the Rev. Duncan M. Gray Jr., denounced Gov. Barnett from his Oxford pulpit as "a living symbol of lawlessness."

Sidna Brower, editor of the student newspaper at Ole Miss, received the Scripps-Howard newspaper chains Henry M. Taylor award for her journalistic efforts during the crisis. She will join one of the syndicate newspapers when she graduates in June.

The Mississippi Legislature adjourned a special session on re-apportionment without acting on a proposed probe of the riots.

Former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, charged with seditious conspiracy and inciting an insurrection in connection with the riots, obtained his release from a Springfield, Mo., federal prison hospital on $50,000 bond. He refused to answer any questions about his activities in Oxford and must undergo psychiatric examination in Dallas, Tex., this week.

Rock Saturday night. No arrest was made and details of the shooting were not known.

Betty Jo Hankins, 17, was killed Sunday two miles south of Marked Tree when she was hit by a car on state Highway 149 near her home. State Trooper Bob Cooper said the driver of the car was Glendon Marcum, 32, of Wynne.

The accident was listed as unavoidable. Witnesses said the girl ran in front of the car.

Also during the week a North Little Rock man died of injuries received a week earlier in a head-on collision on state Highway 10 south of Perryville. He was Neal Leftwich.

Six other persons died in traffic accidents during the week, one person was accidentally shot to death and one person was killed when hit by a train.

Another Episcopal clergyman, the Rev. Duncan M. Gray Jr., denounced Gov. Barnett from his Oxford pulpit as "a living symbol of lawlessness."

Sidna Brower, editor of the student newspaper at Ole Miss, received the Scripps-Howard newspaper chains Henry M. Taylor award for her journalistic efforts during the crisis. She will join one of the syndicate newspapers when she graduates in June.

The Mississippi Legislature adjourned a special session on re-apportionment without acting on a proposed probe of the riots.

Former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, charged with seditious conspiracy and inciting an insurrection in connection with the riots, obtained his release from a Springfield, Mo., federal prison hospital on $50,000 bond. He refused to answer any questions about his activities in Oxford and must undergo psychiatric examination in Dallas, Tex., this week.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller appears to be a heavy favorite to win re-election in New York State, despite direct opposition from Democratic President Kennedy on one side and the extreme right wing on the other.

Because of the nature of the opposition, a clear-cut victory for Rockefeller could put him in the lead for the Republican nomination for president in 1964.

The election pits the exuberant, dashing Rockefeller against Democrat Robert M. Morgenthau, a reserved, soft-spoken lawyer who was a political unknown only a few weeks ago.

Morgenthau resigned as a U.S. attorney to take the nomination, reportedly with the urging of Kennedy. The President will campaign for him in the state along with such other Democratic big guns as former President Harry S. Truman, Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and Anthony Celebrezze, secretary of health, education and welfare.

The Democratic nominee is the son of Henry Morgenthau Jr., U.S. Secretary of the Treasury under President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

He is 43, married, the father of four children, a novice at grass roots campaigning, and wealthy.

Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits, 58, aggressive and articulate, is running for re-election with Rockefeller and also is favored to win.

The Democratic nominee for the Senate is James B. Donovan, a 4-year-old Brooklyn lawyer who negotiated the release of U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers from a Soviet jail and now is negotiating with the Castro regime for release of Cubans captured in the Bay of Pigs invasion.

Witnesses Called in Murder Trial

HARRISBURG, Ark. (AP)—Ten witnesses were called by Prosecuting Attorney A. S. Harrison of Blytheville Thursday in the first degree murder trial of Charles (Pete) Roberts, 49, of Weiner.

The trial enters its third day today. An all-male jury was empaneled in Poinsett Circuit Court Wednesday.

Roberts is charged with the fatal shooting of Tommy Jacob, 23, of near Weiner, Oct. 30, 1961, at Waldenburg.

Witnesses testified Thursday they saw Roberts shoot Jacob in a tavern operated by Roberts at Waldenburg.

Following testimony of defense witnesses today the case is expected to go to the jury.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®.

Professional Women Are Hard, Bossy

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Hard, bossy, unfeminine, yet using womanly wiles to get their way—that's how professional women see themselves, says a leading anthropologist.

Dr. Ethel J. Alpenfels thinks they're mixed up and actually believe in that aggressive boss lady cliché that's been kicking around for years.

"The professional woman has a stereotype as an image," says the New York University professor, "and the image is confused, negative and unrealistic."

She made this unhappy discovery when she conducted a recent opinion poll of 400 men and women from NYU's Graduate School of Education and the Newark College of Engineering, some already professionals and others preparing to be. Her study is dealt with in Dr. Alpenfels' contribution to a newly published book: "American Women: The Changing Image."

This feminine, unbossy, nonstereotypical anthropologist was fascinated, she said, to discover that those not yet professionals were far kinder to women than the professionals, and men were far kinder to their feminine colleagues than the women were to themselves.

In the listing of women's personality traits, confusion and inconsistency were rampant. Both men and women listed aggressiveness as a leading characteristic of lady professionals. Women were also called dogmatic for ethical conduct, but domineering, cold and hard. At the same time they were considered warmer, more understanding and more cordial than men, enjoying a better relationship with others.

As for professional standards and qualifications, men didn't differentiate between the sexes. Women did.

Men put education first and emphasized membership in professional groups, professional reading, training and appearance, which they called being well-groomed and women called well-dressed.

Only 3 per cent of the men cited intelligence, while women thought intelligence the outstanding qualification for themselves. A bare 1 per cent of the women mentioned education. Not one woman put down professional reading.

Mrs. Cecil Smith gave the Leader's Notes to the club.

An interesting program, "Party Refreshments," was given by Mrs. C. J. Rowe, who distributed recipes as well as helpful hints. A special event of the meeting was a birthday shower the club had for Mrs. L. J. Hampton and Mrs. Elston Willis. Mrs. Robert Cash won't the Thrift Game when a drawing was held for it.

Ice cream, cake and assorted tidbits were served with cold drinks for refreshments. The meeting on Nov. 7 will be with Mrs. Orville Hoelscher.

Robbery Suspect Being Checked

BOSTON (AP)—Postal inspectors were reported today to be checking out a Providence, R.I., man tentatively identified as one of those involved in the $1.5-million mail truck robbery Aug. 14.

The Boston Globe said the truck driver and the guard, William F. Barrett and Patrick R. Schena, identified the man as one of those who tied them up and looted the truck.

"They were said to have identified the man when he appeared in court last week. The man was then sentenced to 5-10 years in prison for illegal possession of burglary tools.

The spectacular robbery, the largest cash haul in history, took place on a lonely Route 3 bypass the night of Aug. 14.

The law governing finding of hidden pirate treasure in the Virgin Islands stipulates that the finder negotiate directly with the U. S. secretary of the treasury as to how much taxes should be paid.

Holiday for Soviet Cops Is Planned

By GEORGE SYVERTSON

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet cops this year are going to have a special national holiday in their honor. The "Day of the Soviet Militia" will be celebrated Nov. 10, the militia's 45th anniversary.

This appears to be another step in the Soviet regime's stubborn effort to brighten the public image of its men in blue.

Ever since the anti-Stalinist reaction set in, authorities have been trying to re-educate the guardians of public order as well as the generally hostile public.

Judging from day-to-day relations the campaign still has a long way to go.

Most Western residents regard Soviet policemen as probably the most ineffectual traffic cops in the world.

Crowds of pedestrians constantly swarm across streets against the light, ignoring angry shouts from the cop on the corner.

Cars brazenly jump traffic lights in full view of the policeman on duty or whiz past his motorcycle on the road well above the speed limit.

Sassing of policemen is almost a national pastime.

One Western resident was stopped because his car was dirty.

Another Man Has Parted the Red Sea

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Cecil B. DeMille once boasted that only two men had ever parted the Red Sea and he was one of them.

Now Daryl Zanuck can claim to be one of the two men in history who commanded a mass invasion of Normandy. His achievement recorded in the new film "The Longest Day," is an impressive one.

This is the sort of thing that Zanuck does best. It is never happier for more successful than when he is in command of the troops.

He is a commander—and a cutter. His great films "12 O'Clock High," "All About Eve," "Gentlemen's Agreement"—were all masterfully edited. So is "The Longest Day." It moves swiftly from scenes of mass movement to a vignette of two soldiers in a hushed backwash of battle, from the prayerful Allied control commands to the frenetic posts of German generals.

The miracle of the film's organization is that there is no trace of that cliché, the senior narrator. Nor is there any concession to language. The Germans, French, English and Americans speak their own tongues; subtitles aid the viewer.

The film has its defects. Some of the pre-invasion pep talks have the ring of cheap brass.

There is one absurdity: a glider planeload of British commandos crash-lands next to a bridge and the German sentries hear nothing.

Otherwise "The Longest Day" is about the ultimate in film warfare. A one-lake scene taken from a helicopter of a French commando advance along a Normandy quay may well be the greatest single piece of war action ever filmed.

ty—there is a strict rule against dirty cars.

The Westerner, having listened patiently to a lecture on his duty to keep his car clean, calmly walked around the policeman, carefully looking him up and down and finally announced: "Your boots are dirty."

The embarrassed policeman sheepishly waved the driver on his way.

As in most Communist countries the number of men on Soviet police forces is a state secret. Even a casual survey indicates this is one of the most intensively policed states in the world.

For the most part, the militia (Communists don't like the word police) performs ordinary police duties and does not normally take part in the work of the security organs of secret police.

There are five types of militia: Administrative — Responsible for maintaining public order, internal passport control, traffic, sanitary inspections.

Criminal — Charged with combating crime, surveillance of "so-called delinquency."

Industrial — Serving as guards for industrial establishments except top-secret sites.

Departmental — Various units guarding railroads, waterways, airlines, prisons and the Moscow subway.

Militia reserve — Including foot, mounted and motorized units organized along semimilitary lines, usually found only in major cities.

Communists used to talk about police forces as a feature of capitalism that would wither away in a Communist society.

The 45-year-old Soviet militia appears to be a going concern that shows no signs of dying out.

Trio of New Programs Wed. Nights

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A trio of new programs had their television premier Wednesday night, and they certainly had tough acts to follow: the successful voyage of astronaut Schirra and the windup of the National League pennant race.

First came ABC's "Going My Way," which is the series based on an old and beloved Bing Crosby movie. Gene Kelly now plays Father Chuck O'Malley, the young curate, and he's a more serious fellow than Bing was. The opening episode concerned arranging—and then disarranging—a trip to Ireland for Father Fitzgibbons, and mostly served to introduce the players to the audience. Leo G. Carroll plays the older priest with dignity and humor.

This promises to be a sentimental, warm program—and have a little message, too. And I hope it will occasionally show Gene Kelly dancing.

Then along came Stanley Holloway as "Our Man Higgins," also on ABC. The droll, long-faced Holloway plays a British butler who is inherited by the American MacRoberts family, along with some ancient silver. The MacRoberts home was a shambles when Higgins arrived, but he had whipped it into fine shape within 30 minutes. By next week, "Hazel" will have a formidable male rival.

Finally, there was NBC's new medical series, "The 17th Hour," in which Wendell Corey plays a jawyer turned psychiatrist. The story opened with an outbreak in a violent ward of a mental hospital, which had nothing to do with the plot, but soon focused on a woman accused of murdering her husband. The question was not the usual whodunnit but simply whether she was legally sane or insane when it happened. To find out, they tried out everything from hypnosis to free association tests.

Farmer Best Cotton Picker a 2nd Time
BLYTHEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — E. D. Neighbors of Hornersville took home another $1,000 from the National Cotton Picking Contest Saturday.

The 33-year-old farmer picked 105 pounds of cotton in two hours to win the event for the second straight year. His wife, Charlene, collected $100 for finishing second in the women's division.

Neighbors said he would use the money to pay debts. He has competed in 10 contests and finished in the money in all except the first one in 1952.

Over the years, Mr. and Mrs. Neighbors have collected $3,700 in prize money here.

Barbara Lancaster of Ulin, Mo., won the $250 first prize in the women's division with 82 1/2 pounds, half a pound more than Mrs. Neighbors picked. Olean Graham of Keiser, last year's winner, was third.

Carroll McAfee of Sikeston, Mo., a three-time winner, was second in the men's division and Bill Adams of Leachville, the 1945 champ, finished third.

The picking contest was the highlight of a five-day festival. Donna Axum of El Dorado was named Cotton Queen Thursday night.

XXXI
Stephen Pendergrass rode his horse westward with the remnants of his force behind him. Of his original number, four of the most aggressive were locked in a dark storm cellar in town; three lay dead and untended along the route of their fighting, nine were wounded seriously, some had gone back to help the wounded get to a ranch where they would be cared for, less than a half dozen had deserted their leader. But of the 37 who had followed him toward town, only seven rode with him back west.

Behind him Deputy Bart Youngblood stood on the high ground northwest of town as dusk came. The drygoods clerk was with him. They served as lookouts. The deputy felt the strangeness of the quiet and the lack of movement. His ears still rang from the gunfire, and sounds such as his horse cropping grass came to him muffled. The drygoods clerk did not chatter as he had in the day before just to hear the sound of his voice.

After some time of silence the clerk said, "Mr. Youngblood." To the deputy the Mistor sounded strange, the clerk was about as old as he was. "Mr. Youngblood, you know, I really thought that I should be hanged, but I didn't believe you all could actually do it. Now, I believe you all will."

The first day of August dawned clear without even a wispy cloud to filter the hot sun. The air was still and by mid-morning one of the hottest days of a hot, dry climate was in progress. This was the day William Ivey was to die.

The people of the town had been moved toward the courthouse by mid-morning. They assembled in the open area at the north end of the building where the rough wooden scaffold had been built.

The month-long struggle to hold Ivey had kindled the interest of even the least civic minded of the townspeople. And the engagement of so many townspeople in the sheriff's special stand-by posse had fanned this flame of interest to a high pitch. All except those forbidden — children and some women — were there.

The sheriff had disposed of his forces according to two thoughts: first that their prisoner might still be rescued and second that it was the responsibility of the sheriff's department and not the Rangers to perform the duty assigned by the district court sitting in Comanche Wells a month ago. Accordingly he sent Lieutenant Ruth and two Rangers to lead three small mounted posses, patrolling the outskirts of town and watching the roads. They were to go no more than a half mile from town so they could hear gunfire and return if needed. The sheriff kept his own deputies at hand to guard the person of the prisoner and carry out the court order.

Not long after breakfast the local preacher had gone alone up to Ivey's cell. He had wanted to carry the key so that he might enter the cell and have a closet contact with the condemned man, but the sheriff had vetoed such an idea.

The preacher did not stay long upstairs. He came down greatly flustered with the starched front of his white shirt torn out, feeling lucky that he had not been choked to death. He would remain ready to offer spiritual comfort if it were asked for but would not come within reach of the man again.

At 11 o'clock the sheriff was ready to begin, but Judge Pendergrass came down the corridor to the office the news to delay them. He said, "Sheriff, my brother is in town. I have seen him standing in the door of the bank."

The sheriff scratched his head. "Well, do you think it means anything? He's not liable to try to break Ivey loose by his self, is he?"

"I don't know," the judge said, then added, speaking slowly and deliberately, "I must tell you before. My brother confessed to me two days ago that he is the man who paid Ivey. I honestly thought it was a lie, but since yesterday I am not sure."

Youngblood could see from the lines in the judge's face that the knowledge and the telling of it were costing the old man. He had not thought of the judge as an old man before, because of the youthfulness of his ideas and the animation of his face.

"I don't know what he might do," the judge went on, "but I think you must reckon with the possibility that he might make a desperate attempt to break Ivey loose, or he might shoot him to prevent his talking."

"Youngblood," the sheriff said, "Get over to the bank right away. I want to know who all is in there. If you have to break a window or something, go ahead. I'll take the blame."

Raging Porkers Blast Out 42-14 Win Over TCU

FORT WORTH (AP)—The air-minded Arkansas Razorbacks proved they had some surprising runners, too, Saturday night and pinned a 42-14 defeat on Texas Christian's stunned Horned Frogs.

The Razorbacks' miss 1 break and fancy punts for the unexpectedly easy victory in an auspicious start to their quest for an unprecedented fourth straight Southwest Conference title.

Arkansas, which meets Baylor in Fayetteville Saturday, capitalized into a tie for the league lead with Texas and Texas A&M, each of which has beaten Texas Tech.

It was Arkansas' widest victory margin ever over a CU team and a series record 42-536 fans watched. About 5,000 were from Arkansas.

The Razorbacks took command early in the second quarter and were not in danger after fullback Danny Brabham's 43-yard scoring burst made the tally 21-7 early in the third period.

Sophomore safety Ken Hatfield of Helena put the icing on the sweep triumph with a 71-yard punt return for the final Porker touchdown.

Quarterback Billy Moore, who mixed his ground plays and a few passes to perfection, scored twice on short runs. Brabham got another touchdown on a two-yard run. And fullback Jesse Branch got the Porkers started on the right road with a 36-yard scoring burst in the opening period.

In contrast to Arkansas' earlier victories over Oklahoma State and Tulsa, in which passes were the dominant factor in 34-7 and 42-14 victories, Arkansas tried only seven passes Saturday night, completing four for 82 yards.

The infantry earned 31 brilliant yards against one of the Southwest Conference's most highly regarded club clubs.

Three Texas Christian fumbles and a key pass interference penalty helped Arkansas run up the score. Arkansas fumbled just once, Brabham losing the ball at the TCU 13.

At the moment the loss seemed tragic. Arkansas was ahead only 7-0 and TCU tied it moments later. But Brabham redeemed himself later with his 43-yard scamper for the first touchdown.

Tech Beat Challenger at the Start

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's three down and four to go for defending champion Arkansas Tech today and it begins to look as if the Wonder Boys may have disposed of their stoutest challenger when they beat Harding 6-0 in the league opener.

While Tech was making Southern State its third victim 24-6 Saturday night, Harding was upset by Ouachita Baptist 30-19 at Arkadelphia and the authority with which the Bisons did the job indicated it may not have been an upset after all.

State Teachers nailed down its second straight AIC victory 14-0 over College of the Ozarks at Clarksville in the other league game.

Henderson Teachers, which like ASTC carried a 1-0 conference card into the weekend, took 14-0 jumps from Mississippi College at Clinton, Miss.

Arkansas A&M crushed Memphis Navy 46-13 Friday night.

This week's conference games send Southern State to Henderson, Teachers to Harding and Ouachita to A&M. The Searcy match will give Harding a chance to show its 3-1 overall record is no fluke.

Jacksonville (Ala.) State is at Russellville for a non-conference match with Tech.

Tech turned two blocked punts and a fumble into points in the victory over Southern State.

The first blocked kick set up a 25-yard field goal by Sonny Zachery in the first period. Then George Leonard picked up the fumble and rambled 65 yards for a touchdown. The second blocked punt gave Tech the ball on the Southern 16 and Tech scored in six plays.

Tech's Bill Curtis returned a punt 65 yards for the final Wonder Boy score. Just before that Larry Gillard ran 59 yards for Southern's only counter.

Harding pushed off to a 19-0 lead over Ouachita, then let the Tigers get within seven points at 19-12 before halftime. After a scoreless third period, the Bisons put it away on a four-yard touchdown by quarterback Tom Carter and a 10-yard scoring pass from Carter to Gail Mote.

Fullback Bill Grubbs ran 13 yards for a first period touchdown and 45 yards for another score in the final quarter in Teachers' victory over Ozarks. Between Grubbs' punts, it was mostly defense.

Mississippi College pushed over two first half touchdowns, then handed Henderson its second defeat against one victory.

WHERE THERE'S A WILL, THERE'S A WAY!—Headed for a National League record, Dodger shortstop Maury Wills was away and running as he marked up his 72nd stolen base at third against New York at the Polo Grounds. The Mets' third baseman is Felix Mantilla.

Arkansas, Texas Lead Statistically

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Unbeaten Arkansas and Texas continued their impressive statistical rampage in the Southwest Conference last week and rank 1-2 in both offense and defense.

Arkansas, which rolled up a smashing 393 yards while beating Texas Christian 42-14, has a per game offensive average of 433.7 yards, which is 124 yards per game better than runner-up Texas.

Arkansas has held its foes to 204.7 yards per outing to lead in defense. Texas has limited its opponents to 238.7.

Arkansas and Texas appeared to follow their third-game scripts of a year ago, although the Razorbacks embellished theirs a bit as the touchdowns came easier.

Last year Arkansas out-gained TCU 344 to 162, while scoring a 28-3 victory. This year the yardage superiority was 393-183.

Arkansas leads in rushing with 267 yards per game but is third in passing. Rice tops in the air with 179 while Baylor is second with 172.5. Arkansas shows 160.7.

Three times Ohio State put together long drives that ground away steadily until they reached the one-yard line. Three times UCLA turned back the threats.

Kermit Alexander flashed off tackle for 45 yards for a UCLA touchdown in the first period, but Ohio went up in the second period. From then on it was all defense until UCLA sophomore Larry Zeno kicked the winning 24-yard field goal with 95 seconds left.

Two other top ranked teams, Georgia Tech and Army, had their perfect records blighted in a continuing string of upsets.

Georgia Tech (No. 5) got a 10-7 kicking from rebounding Louisiana State in a nationally televised and Army (No. 10) fell before Michigan 17-7.

Otherwise, it was business as usual for the top clubs, with Mississippi making a bold bid to improve its seventh-ranked position. Old Miss walloped previously unbeaten Houston 40-7 with quarterback Glynn Griffith throwing four touchdown passes.

Alabama (No. 2) came from behind and beat Vanderbilt 17-7, with Joe Nameth's 35-yard touchdown pass to Dick Williamson the clincher. It was 'Bama's third victory this season and 13th in a row, the country's longest winning string.

Texas (No. 3) had little trouble in whipping winless Tulane 35-8 for the Longhorns' third straight, but fourth-ranked Penn State had to struggle for an 18-7 victory over Rice. Dave Hayes scored all three Penn State touchdowns.

Southern California (No. 6) edged Iowa 7-0, intercepting two Hawkeye passes and recovering five Iowa fumbles, one of which led to the only touchdown of the game. Eighth-ranked Washington scored a 41-0 rout over Kansas State.

In some of the other major games Ron Digraio came off the bench and led Purdue to a 24-6 triumph over Notre Dame, Pitt edged California 26-24, Duke rallied for a 28-21 victory over Florida. Auburn took Kentucky 16-6. Minnesota shut out Navy 21-0.

Oregon State upset Stanford 27-0 and Hardin Simmons lost its 26th straight, 29-0 to North Texas.

Manager Ralph Houk planned to use the same lineup against right-hander Marichal he employed against left-hander Billy Pierce Sunday. The Yankees broke through Pierce's guard in only one inning but that was enough.

Three straight hits in the seventh—more than they got in the other seven innings—helped produce three runs and put Pierce out.

The hits, singles by Tommy Tresh, Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris, were hard smashes, but three glaring mistakes helped the Yankee cause and pin the defeat on the 35-year-old southpaw.

Felipe Alou's error on Mantle's left-field single permitted Tresh to advance a base to third with Mickey taking second on the throw. Willie McCovey's failure to hold Maris' two-run single to right field permitted Roger to take second, from where he advanced to third on Ellie Howard's fly to Willie Mays.

Don Larsen, who had relieved Pierce following Maris' hit, plunked Bill Skowron on the back with a pitched ball. Then came the play on which the winning run scored, although there was no way for anyone in the sellout crowd of 71,434 to suspect it was the clincher.

Clete Boyer bounced to Jose Pagan. The shortstop flipped to second base for a force on Skowron but Chuck Hiller momentarily bobbled the ball, then got off a weak throw to first, a fraction of a second too late for the double play. Maris crossed the plate with the third run.

Dark planned to make only one change from the lineup that could get only four hits against the strong pitching of Stafford. Two came in the ninth, when the Giants scored their only runs on Ed Bailey's two-out home run on top of Mays' double.

Harvey Kuenn, who failed to hit in five tries against Ford in the opener, returned to the outfield but was placed in right field with Alou remaining in left.

Giants Still in Role of Having to Battle Back

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Trailing two games to one, San Francisco's Giants found themselves in the familiar role of having to battle back in today's fourth World Series game to pull abreast of the New York Yankees.

The Giants are noted for their ability to come from behind, but this time their task is doubly difficult. Not only are they in enemy territory, where they managed to collect but four hits off right-hander Bill Stafford in a 3-2 defeat Sunday, but they must face Whitey Ford, the most successful pitcher in World Series history.

The brilliant Yankee southpaw will be seeking his second triumph of this series and his 11th since he posted his first victory in 1950. He defeated the Giants in the opener, in their own ball park, 6-2.

Giants manager Alvin Dark, still confident his team can overtake the Yankees, nominated Juan Marichal, who never before has pitched in a World Series.

The right-hander from the Dominican Republic, who posted an 18-11 record during the regular season, said a foot injury which sidelined him for nearly two weeks in September, was "still a little sore," but he did not expect it to handicap him.

The odds-makers have established the Yankees a 7½-to-5 favorite to win today and 4-1 to take the series. Today's weather forecast is fair with increasing cloudiness late in the day.

Manager Ralph Houk planned to use the same lineup against right-hander Marichal he employed against left-hander Billy Pierce Sunday. The Yankees broke through Pierce's guard in only one inning but that was enough.

Three straight hits in the seventh—more than they got in the other seven innings—helped produce three runs and put Pierce out.

THE FORCE OF GRAVITY—The gravity of pitching a well nigh perfect game is reflected on the face of Jack Kralick as the Twins' left-hander throws a curve to Kansas City outfielder Manny Jimenez in the eighth inning in Minneapolis. Jimenez grounded out, but Kralick lost his perfect game by walking a pinch-hitter with one out in the ninth inning.

Moore Booms Porks to Best Start

By BILL C. SIMMONS

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Quarterback Billy Moore, a little guy who does big things, has boomed the Arkansas Razorbacks to their greatest football start in the five-year tenure of coach Frank Broyles.

The 5-10, 176-pound Moore was matched last Saturday in Fort Worth, Tex., against 6-7 Guy (Sonny) Gibbs, the respected Texas Christian University field general.

The little guy hustled and hurled the Razorbacks to an overwhelming 42-14 triumph, sending the Razorbacks to a good start down the road to an unprecedented fourth straight Southwest Conference championship.

Moore's diving, darting runs against TCU ate up 52 yards and he was on target on three of four passes for another 68 yards—his smallest yardage production of the year.

In addition, he hopped on two Horned Frog fumbles at crucial junctures and rammed over for two touchdowns. Moore is the conference scoring leader with 30 points.

Behind Moore's brilliance, the Razorbacks have taken conference command of the statistics, leading in rushing, total offense, defense and scoring.

Broyles is still in his teams a winning complex that has added up to three straight 8-2 seasons and all or parts of three conference titles.

This year the Razorbacks took to a three-team system much on the order of that created by Paul Dietzel when at Louisiana State University.

Also, Arkansas did not have the fine halfbacks that carried it to the first three titles, so Broyles, switched to a quarterback-fullback offense.

The biggest surprise of all has been the Porkers' ability to pass—thanks to a crop of fine receivers, including Jerry Lamb, Gary Howard, Tim Langston, Jim Grizzle, Mike Parker and George Walker.

In the season opener, the Razorbacks shelled Oklahoma State 34-7 with Moore sprinting for 56 yards and passing for 73. He saw only four downs of action the second half.

Against Tulsa he piled up 238 yards individual total offense—126 of it on the ground, including a 90-yard touchdown gallop from scrimmage.

Moore has connected on 22 of 27 passes, averaging 11 yards per completion, and has rushed for an average of better than seven yards a carry.

Broyles says flatly "To my way of thinking, he is an All-America!"

His other two boots were from the 15-yardline, one in the first period the first time the Packers had the ball and the other in the third quarter.

Washington quarterback Norm Snead found end Fred Dugan a favorite target after using halfback Bobby Mitchell in the first three games. He hit Dugan six times, twice for touchdowns.

Y. A. Tittle passed and ran—at the tender age of 3—the Giants (3-1) to their third win in four starts. He hit Del Shuster with a TD pass, outstepped the Cards' defenders for a 21-yard scoring run and then paved the route for Alex Webster's one-yard scoring burst. In all, he completed 1 of 2 for 190 yards. The Cards (1-3) got both scores from the running of Jimmy Brown scored two touchdowns, one on a 50-yard pass play from Cleveland quarterback Jim Brownowski, who suddenly fired the Browns (2-2) to a second half comeback with nine completions in 10 tries. Lou Groza helped celebrate "Lou Groza Day" in Cleveland with a pair of field goals.

The 49ers (2-2) offense was too much for Baltimore (2-2) and its defense too much for Colts' quarterback Johnny Unitas, who was lifted in the second period after gaining only five yards on two completions. John Brodie of the 49ers hit 15 of 19 passes for 143 yards, one for a TD, while J. D. Smith's running (31 tries for 145 yards) helped set up a pair of scores by Bill Kilmer.

Roger LeClere Kicked field goals of 13 and 40 yards for the Bears (3-1) and Ron Bull ran 21 yards for a TD after Billy Wade helped engineer the drive with his passing and running.

Paul Hornung Has Gold in His Foot

By JACK CLARY

Associated Press Sports Writer

Someone hung the "Golden Boy" tag on Paul Hornung because of his curly, blond hair. That was a mistake. The gold in Hornung has to be his toe and his ability to win the money games for the Green Bay Packers.

The former Notre Dame star booted the defending National Football League champions into sole possession of first place in the Western Conference Sunday kicking three field goals in a 9-7 victory over the Detroit Lions.

As usual, he saved the best one for when it was needed—this time 33 seconds from the finish.

The Washington Redskins have that golden feeling today, too, having put together their first three-game winning streak since 1957 with a 20-14 decision over the Los Angeles Rams that kept them in the lead in the Eastern Conference with a 3-0-1 mark.

In other NFL games, the New York Giants stayed hot on the trail of the Redskins with a 31-14 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals; the Cleveland Browns defeated Dallas' Cowboys 19-10; San Francisco rolled over the Baltimore Colts 21-13, and the Chicago Bears shut out Minnesota 13-0.

Pittsburgh won over Philadelphia, 13-7 Saturday night.

In the American League, Houston defeated Buffalo 17-14 and San Diego handed Dallas its first loss, 32-28 in the only Sunday games.

Herb Adderley set up Hornung's winning kick. The former Michigan State halfback intercepted one of Milt Plum's passes and ran 40 yards to Detroit's 21-yard line with less than two minutes to play. After two running plays, Hornung stepped back and split the uprights from the 21-yard line.

His other two boots were from the 15-yardline, one in the first period the first time the Packers had the ball and the other in the third quarter.

Washington quarterback Norm Snead found end Fred Dugan a favorite target after using halfback Bobby Mitchell in the first three games. He hit Dugan six times, twice for touchdowns.
